

Take the Magno-Flo Challenge

We at Magno-Flo are so sure about our product; we openly challenge any individual, organisation or scientific body to carry out tests which we will be more than happy to take part in.

We are disappointed that our name has been used by individuals on web-pages when talking about magnetic fuel saving devices, stating wrongly that we have no scientific evidence and that all our tests have been carried out with older vehicles. This is simply not true.

The following though, is true:

- Magno-Flo is the only company to have independent trials carried out by a leading British institute – see our test page
- Magno-Flo have the most up to date test fleet of all fuel saving device manufacturers and continue to monitor and add bona-fide testimonials that have real people with real locations – see our testimonial page.
- Magno-Flo, far from resting on our laurels is continuing to develop a comprehensive technical data base for our distributors and trade partners.
- Magno-Flo in conjunction with Interface are looking for technology partners to further test and where possible improve our product range to give our customers the confidence to buy without hesitation
- Magno-Flo are the only company who are a face to face organisation that doesn't hide behind the web, but has its own fitting bay, distributor/fitters and trade partners.

So go ahead and challenge us to any test! We only ask that we are allowed to agree on the test parameters, advise on the fitting of our unit and observe the test and data received. Contact myself through our contact page and I will be in touch.
